About me

Bernd is an enthusiastic Software guy interested in combining client-side (Web) development with algorithmic problem solving. He is currently applying his skills to creating Lemontiger, a next-generation team collaboration tool fueled by a graph-based resource recommender. Although Bernd left his academic work for entrepreneurial challenges, he retained a scientific mind-set and sound, experimental approach.

Review

Alice approaches Wonderland as an anthropologist, but maintains a strong sense of noblesse oblige that comes with her class status. She has confidence in her social position, education, and the Victorian virtue of good manners. Alice has a feeling of entitlement, particularly when comparing herself to Mabel, whom she declares has a "poky little house," and no toys. Additionally, she flaunts her limited information base with anyone who will listen and becomes increasingly obsessed with the importance of good manners as she deals with the rude creatures of Wonderland. Alice maintains a superior attitude and behaves with solicitous indulgence toward those she believes are less privileged.
